Dear Miss Whitney.

Mr Baxter will tell you how sorry I was not to see you, and as for you I must insist that you tell me to what your enigmatical criticism has reference. I cannot afford to miss any suggestion you could make and it is your duty to tell me
the course
what point you have in mind as to which you think I, or we, or anybody has or have been too wrong. If I had made any mistake I should forever

no doubt recognize it even from your vague reference, but I have made so many that you must really discriminate.
Don't be afraid of hurting my feelings.

Yours, heartily

Edward Bellamy.
